

Announcing Two One-Day Workshops with

Lynne Ann Schwarzenberg

Sponsored by the Blue Ridge Polymer Clay Guild

Location: Asheville, NC, in the home of a BRPCG member

Dates/Times: Saturday June 20 and Sunday July 21, 10:00 a.m.-6:00 pm.

Cost:

BRPCG Members: $95 one day, $170 two days

Non-BRPCG Members: $110 one day, $185 two days

(Registrations include material fees)

Saturday, June 20

Dimensional Tiger Lilies and Pods

This class combines caning and sculpture techniques to create incredible 3-dimensional tiger lilies and pods. Lynne Ann will teach us the techniques she used to create the beautiful necklace that won the Grand Prize as well as the Polymer Clay category in the 2008 Rings & Things Competition. Students can expect to make a tiger lily petal cane, a single flower and a pod in this class. Leaves will be demonstrated.

Sunday, June 21

Making the Most of Your Flower Canes in Tile Jewelry Design

In this class, Lynne Ann will share her methods of proper cane reduction, cutting, trimming, composition, rolling in, finishing, and pendant construction. Starting with your own flower and leaf canes (and/or sharing some of Lynne Ann's), you'll learn the techniques that make her jewelry so outstanding in its design, construction, and finishing!

Registration for these classes will be limited, so don't miss this great opportunity! Register today by contacting:

Barb Dolcimascolo, Treasurer / Membership
treasurerNOSPAM@brpcg.com (remove NOSPAM from address)

For more information, visit Lynne Ann's website:
<http://www.riverpoetdesign.com/>